

Your guide to drug infusion therapy

Know where to go for care

Highmark provides coverage for several locations outside of a high-cost hospital setting where you can receive drug infusion therapy. Depending on certain factors such as medication, your medical benefits, and where you live, you may be able to receive infusions at the following locations:

Doctor's Office

(not affiliated with a hospital)

You may opt for the stability of your physician's office, which offers:

- The experience and clinical quality provided by your physician and a team of trained health care professionals.
- Administration provided in surroundings familiar to you.
- Potential savings on out-of-pocket costs, depending on your plan and deductible.*

Home

Or you may prefer the privacy and comfort of your own home, which offers:

- A team of skilled health professionals.
- Care that is coordinated with your physician.
- Limited exposure to infection and illness.
- Support of family members and friends.
- No required travel.
- Potential savings on out-of-pocket costs, depending on your plan and deductible.*

Infusion Center

(not affiliated with a hospital)

A welcoming, comfortable independent infusion therapy center offers:

- A team of skilled health professionals.
- Care that is coordinated with your physician.
- Separate infusion suites.
- Flexible hours.
- Potential savings on out-of-pocket costs, depending on your plan and deductible.*
